

The Australian Payments Council Invites Participants to a Data Sharing Challenge Design Workshop

20 October 2016

Join us at the Challenge Design Workshop!

The Australian Payments Council is inviting organisations with an interest in payments to be part of its Challenge Design Workshop at the Spark Festival Sydney on Friday, 28 October 2016.

The workshop will focus on designing a range of challenges to be used in a hackathon early next year.

The IBM-facilitated workshop will give a range of organisations - large and small - a chance to discuss the wider benefits of making data available.

If you would like to participate in the workshop, register for the event.

The Hackathon

Next year's hackathon will demonstrate that sharing data can lead to creation of new customer-facing services.

Using data provided by a number of financial institutions, a retailer, and the payment schemes – this hackathon will help inform the industry's approach to APIs.

Prizes will be awarded to top teams, as judged by the Council and major FinTech representatives.
